

Dear Friends of AAWCC,

The American Association for Women in Community Colleges (AAWCC) will hold its Annual Awards Breakfast on Sunday, March 29, 2020, in National Harbor, Maryland at the Gaylord National Resort & Convention Center during the American Association of Community Colleges (AACC) 100th Annual Convention. Community college executives representing nearly 1200 colleges and serving over 13 million students attend the annual conference. We are pleased to announce that this year's keynote speaker will be Dr. Daria Willis, President of Everett Community College. Learn more about Dr. Daria Willis at www.dariajwillis.com.

Each year, women from across the country who are nationally known for their leadership excellence in community colleges and who act as role models for individuals in similar positions, are honored at the Awards Breakfast. AAWCC Chapters and programs that have made a significant difference in educating community college students and improving their lives and communities also are recognized. You can read about last year's award recipients on our web site: www.aawccnatl.org

The American Association for Women in Community College is the largest affiliated council of AACC. As a Council member the American Association for Women in Community Colleges serves as an advocate for community college students, has a strong commitment for an educated workforce, and stresses the importance of the completion of certificates and degrees to help stimulate economic recovery.

(Your organization) can make a difference in the goal of an educated workforce, as well as the future of women leaders in community colleges, by giving your financial support and commitment to the Awards Breakfast. Sponsorship monies are used for scholarships for chapter programming, leadership development, and the pursuit of educational degrees. Your sponsorship will demonstrate your support and commitment of AAWCC's goals and of community colleges in general. We very much appreciated our 2019 sponsorships, and I invite you to be an advocate for women leaders and sponsor the AAWCC Annual Awards Breakfast this year:
